JOANNA GROSSMAN

Joanna Grossman, Ph.D., works as a lobbyist and leads the equine program at the Animal Welfare Institute in Washington, DC. She was previously the organization's federal policy advisor, advocating for a wide range of animal protection issues on Capitol Hill. Her writings and work have been featured in or covered by numerous media outlets. While completing her doctorate, she worked on legislation that impacts animal welfare at the Humane Society of the United States, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and for Congressman Jim Moran, a former chair of the Animal Protection Caucus. In addition to serving on Sinergia Animal's advisory board, Joanna sits on the steering committee for the Homes for Horses Coalition and serves on the advisory board of Predator Defense. Joanna received her B.A. from Princeton University and holds a master's degree from the University of Oxford (where she studied as a Fulbright Scholar) as well as a Ph.D. from Harvard University.

KIRSTY MCCALDEN

Kirsty McCalden has an academic background in animal behavior and welfare and psychology. She is passionate about contributing to scientific research and all aspects of this area through her strengths in analysis and report writing. Her psychology degree also gives her the ability to support the output of publicly viewed materials in the hope of changing perceptions and behavior. Her psychology background can also aid discussions about veganism and the psychological barriers by which different individuals are held back from change by, for example, conformance to social norms. Kirsty has previously worked directly with laying hens on a project researching enrichment tools. Furthermore, she has also visited dairy and beef farms and, therefore, has a very clear picture of the issues needing to be addressed.

Quality Systems Specialist for Synaptive Medical Inc.

Based in Canada

LAWRENCE YEH

Lawrence Yeh is a quality systems specialist in the medical device industry, which means that he has enabled others to achieve high-quality outputs in their areas of expertise. Lawrence uses tools like impact analysis, PFMEA, risk prioritization, and root cause analysis to mitigate risks that are commonplace in any knowledge-based work environment. Notably, he has adopted Agile methodologies to manage system improvement tasks, which has proven to provide desired results and continuous improvement. He is also an advocate of methodical approaches to improving operations management, having been immersed in a start-up environment, and experiencing organizational behavior through many challenges.

Global Senior Campaigns Manager at CIWF

Based in United Kingdom

MANDY CARTER

Mandy Carter works in animal rights and protection campaigns and communications. She is currently Global Senior Campaigns Manager at Compassion in World Farming International and was previously Campaigns Director at SAFE in New Zealand. Some successes include working with all supermarkets in New Zealand to get them to go cage-free, securing legislative bans on cosmetic and recreational drug testing on animals, overseeing major investigations, and securing over one million signatures on a European Citizens' Initiative to ban cages for farmed animals.

Based in the United States

ARTURO JOSE GARCIA

Arturo Jose (AJ) Garcia is passionate about changing our food systems via a just transition to mitigate the climate crisis, health crisis, and the exploitation of human and non-human animals and the planet. He has fifteen years of international experience and ten years in senior management, public awareness campaigns, public relations, and undercover investigations. He has been a leader in the non-profit realm for the last decade, working with animal protection organizations such as CARE (동물권단체케어), Mercy For Animals, and Animal Recovery Mission. Currently, he is Head of Operations at 50by40 and serves on the Rights for Animal Rights Advocates (RARA) advisory board. In addition to his efforts in the non-profit realm, Arturo was head chef and general manager of Huggers, a plant-based restaurant in Seoul, South Korea. He is also a Clubhouse and podcast enthusiast, which led him to create and host the Woke Stutter Podcast to chat with leaders and change-makers about animal protection, social justice, food justice, and how we can do better internally as a movement.
